The market over the past two Wednesdays has seemed to gain a bit of strength. We saw the market two sales ago gain some added demand and sell just slightly higher. This past Wednesday we saw even more strength, called up another few dollars on the better end of the cattle showing very solid demand! All weight classes are showing very good buyer demand with more of the strength coming in the lighter and middle weights. Heavier weights are selling well just not as many offered and selling with slightly weaker demand. Plenty of buyers still in the seats wanting the cattle!

Cows and bulls taking a big jump this week selling a full $15 higher compared to just last week. We saw cows last week at the extreme low end of the range and jump to the extreme high end of the range in just one week. We would probably expect this to be somewhat the norm, although maybe not that volatile most of the time from week to week. We do look for the market to stay strong overall on all weight classes of calves and feeders as well as cows but we would expect to see the normal ups and downs from week to week moving through the summer.

Bred cows and pairs showing more demand than expected, only on the good young ones with a good future! Saturday, June 18th we will have a very nice offering of fall bred females, as always if you may need some or have some to sell please don't hesitate to call.
