Annual Bred Female Sale...Featuring an outstanding offering of Fall bred replacement females

In the wake of the Corona Virus it is hard to know exactly where we are headed. This week we would call the stocker and feeder market all over the board as you might expect. Many stocker and feeder operators are left scratching their heads trying to figure out at what price levels do they want to refill pastures and pens. This week's offering of stockers and feeders was extremely light not giving us a true market test so we will call these steady to slightly lower. Although we are expecting this market to jump significantly once we have some reassurance that there is some control of the virus. The recent rains have seemed to provide everyone with some more time and time is on our side the way I see it. On a positive note this week butcher cows called $2 to $4 higher in a good offering of cows. This market continues to stay strong and even gain momentum with all the uncertainty this market still seems to be business as usual. This week would mark the highest cow market we have seen in what seems like a year! If you have dries sitting around it looks like a good time to move them. Bred cows and pairs, no real good test, but the good ones still showing demand and even a bit stronger demand after this rain. Next week will have a good offering of 35 pairs from one ranch. Again if you have any questions about markets please do not hesitate to call me anytime.

.....See you at Ringside....Randy
